Businesses on Watt Street in Elmwood 1910 – 2000

Watt Street was originally two separated streets with two different names. The area north from the St Boniface boundary to Thames Avenue was called Montcalm Street as it was a dead end at Thames Avenue as there was no roadway across the then CPR tracks. Watt Street began at Chalmers Avenue on the other side of the railways tracks. To make it even more confusing during the late 1950's and early 1960's Montcalm was renamed Archibald Street with the street numbers on the former Montcalm Street section changed to reflect the Archibald street numbering system. By the middle 1960's Watt Street became the name for the entire stretch of Elmwood from Harbison Avenue to the St Boniface border. The street numbers on the former Montcalm/Archibald section were once again changed to reflect the existing street numbers on the rest of Watt Street.
